Da Nang Rally Demands Junta Give Way Now

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 3,000 demonstrators took to the streets of Da Nang today and demanded that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government give way to civilian rule.

One speaker burned a copy of the government's decree promising general elections in three to five months. Many of the marchers were civilian government employes.

The noisy rally and march followed by a day a statement by Buddhist leaders in Saigon reaffirming support of the government's election promise. The Buddhists warned demonstrations would follow if the regime did not keep its promises.

The Saigon Buddhist statement made no reference to demands, voiced in the north, that Ky resign immediately and a transitional government take over until elections are held.

The demands were made by two persistent critics of the Ky junta, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, and Mayor Nguyen Van Man of Da Nang.

A spokesman for the Saigon Students' Union announced the union's members would go in a 48-hour hunger strike to protest a Buddhist monk's accusation that student leaders had accepted a huge bribe in return for government support. The union usually has 200 to 300 active members.

In Hanoi, the North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan today denounced one of the moderate Buddhist leaders as "a U. S. agent under a monk's cowl." He is Thich Tam Chau, who has called for a nonviolent struggle against Ky's government but has made it clear that to be anti-government does not mean being anti-American.

The paper charged Tam Chau was playing a double game in the current political crisis by using the Buddhist movement to put pressure on the government while also helping the government suppress the mass movement against it.

A terrorist hurled a grenade at a U. S. military intelligence Jeep near Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport today. Two U. S. soldiers in the vehicle escaped injury, but a Vietnamese civilian was slightly hurt.

Battered By Killer Wave:

Michelangelo Docks In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The Italian superliner Michelangelo, struck by a killer wave at sea, reached New York today with her dead and injured.

A wave said by her captain to have been 50 feet high smashed into the sleek, white ship Tuesday, killing 3 persons, injuring 12 and twisting her superstructure.

"I will dare to say it was the most severe storm I have so far experienced in my 41 years at sea," said Capt. Giuseppe Soletti.

Asked if there ever had been any danger of sinking, Capt. Soletti looked incredulous and replied: "With this ship?"

"It felt like an explosion," said Dr. Jay Blaskovich of San Pedro, Calif. "It was rough, I can tell you that."

The 49,900-ton streamlined ship, put into transatlantic service only last May, was tossed about in a great storm that delayed her voyage from Genoa by two days.

Her flag at half mast, she steamed into New York Harbor in the early morning mist with a giant tarpaulin struck across her damaged superstrucutre like a bandage.

Praise Crew

The ship's 775 passengers praised the Italian crew and her captain, Giuseppe Soletti.

"They were perfect, really a great crew," said Walter Weiland of Munich, Germany.

Some passengers said they had slept through the storm, blissfully unaware of any impending danger. Others said they had been struck by fear and haunted by the roar of the storm's fury.

German novelist Guenter Grass said he had played cards in a companionway with his wife until water started to come through.

"Then I knew it was serious," said Grass. "I went to one of the salons and started waiting like everyone else."

Half of the ship's bow-spray shield, a three-inch thick steel sheet, was torn away by the huge wave. Her quarter deck, 75 feet above the water line, was twisted and damaged.

Nine windows were boarded up, and inside was the debris left by the storm. Broken chairs and tables lay on water-stained carpets, and whole sections of ceiling had been ripped loose.

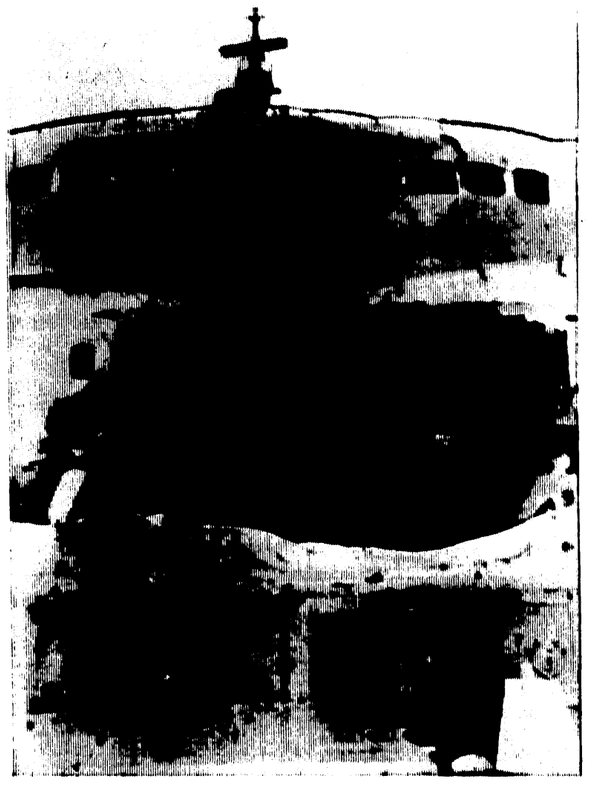
They Were Scared

In the first class dining hall 30 men and women at breakfast were thrown violently across the room. None was seriously hurt, but broken chairs, tables and dishes were strewn everywhere.

A 12-year-old boy, John Egberf, returning from Saudi Arabia to New York with his family, said, "Everybody was making jokes, but you sure knew they were scared."

The Michelangelo was en route from Genoa to New York.

Other ships also had problems with stormy seas.



THIS PICTURE received by radiophoto Friday in New York directly from the Italian luxury liner Michelangelo as she made her way to New York, shows a badly battered superstructure. The vessel's skipper, Capt. Giuseppe Soletti, said everything has returned to normal aboard the 44,000-ton liner. Three persons were killed last Tuesday when the ship was hit by a North Atlantic wave which Soletti said was 33 to 45 feet high. The ship was due in New York today. (AP Wirephoto)

Inflation Curb Effort Finding Small Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration appeal to the 50 states to stem inflationary pressures by deferring unnecessary spending for construction projects is bringing little favorable reaction.

Initial responses from a half dozen governors were that their states could ill afford to delay spending plans to meet critical state needs. Only one of the first 10 to reply — Indiana's Roger D. Branigin — indicated he would try to comply.

The request to hold down unnecessary spending came in a letter sent earlier this week by Farris Bryant, the former Florida governor who took over recently as director of the Office of Emergency Planning. OEP operates as a liasion with state governors besides supervising planning of the nation's nonmilitary defenses.

Bryant wrote the governors:

"The President now asks that you review state and local expenditures in order to defer as much new construction, capital plant investment and equipment purchases as possible."

Officials said this was in line with appeals to businessmen to review investment plans, and to housewives to buy cheaper goods.

Such an appeal is "unrealistic," asserted Nebraska's Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison. He said Nebraska "has been cooperating in anti-inflation for many years" with subpar building programs and low state government salaries.

Morrison said he would inform Bryant's office that he will not order a deferment of new building, capital investment and equipment buying.

From neighboring Kansas, Republican Gov. William H. Avery said he was willing to help the anti-inflation program but that no significant state construction projects would be deferred. He said most of the state's construction is for higher education where the need is becoming more critical.

A similar response came from Virginia.

"We recognize the perils we would confront if inflation continues unchecked," said Democratic Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr.

"But a far more dangerous course, a far more futile answer would be for Virginia to halt her plans for progress. Many of the projects in question already have been deferred too long," he said.

Minnesota's Gov. Karl Rolvaag, also a Democrat, said he sees "no way to defer projects now in progress." He said he had sent his regrets in a letter to Bryant.

Branigin, however, said he was supporting the program and would review state projects to see which could be deferred.

The Indiana Democrat said it was too early to be specific.

A spokesman for Democratic Gov. Robert E. McNair of South Carolina said "no holdbacks are planned for the immediate future by South Carolina governmental institutions."

Nevada Budget Director Howard Barrett said that while he and Democratic Gov. Grant Sawyer are continuing a policy of holding down unnecessary state spending they plan no special moves to combat the possibility of inflation.

In Little Rock, Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas said the fight against inflation has stymied the three-state Ozarka regional development program to fight poverty in mountain areas of Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Besides Ozarka, the Arkansas Democrat said, the President's program "will hold up a lot of projects. There's no doubt about it."

The Office of Emergency Planning disputed Faubus' contention that the anti-inflation program was holding up the Ozarka program. It said the regional commission to run it is being formed, that planning funds are available and that when plans are drawn the commission can ask congressional appropriations.

Johnson Pleased With His Foray South Of Border

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's trip to Mexico city — his first visit to a foreign capital — may have produced little in the way of measurable results. But it has done much for the President.

Johnson, eager to visit Latin America for many months, had been told by some advisers that such a trip would be unwise. That advice followed American intervention in the Dominican Republic a year ago.

Now the President has stepped across the southern border. And all portents stemming from the 24-hour trip he concluded Friday turned out favorable.

In fact, Johnson said he couldn't recall a warmer welcome anywhere im the world, and he saw some pretty big ones as vice president.

Without question, the chief executive was encouraged — a mild word — by the hundred of thousands of Mexicans who turned out to greet him Thursday and forced a 9½-mile motorcade to a 2½-hour pace. Some local police officials estimated the crowd at two million. The real figure couldn't be calculated.

Perhaps this reception helped prompt Johnson to suggest a more ambitious south-of-the-border foray.

In his big speech of the trip, at the unveiling Friday of a statue of Abraham Lincoln in a Mexico City park, the President endorsed a proposal that he get together with Latin-American chiefs of state for a hemispheric summit conference to promote the Alliance for Progress.

This served to strengthen speculation Johnson wants to visit South America this year.

In Mexico, Johnson in his own way demonstrated his pleasure with the way things went.

For example, on his departure motorcade to the Mexico City airport, the car assigned to the bodyguard of Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz preceded the big limousine from which U.S. Secret Service agents protect American presidents at home and abroad.

This may have been an accident — and White House reporters couldn't recall when it happened before. But they suspected Johnson may have had a hand in it, to affirm respect for a fellow president.

Stop Search For Chase Osborn III

Chase S. Osborn III

PORT HURON (AP)—Search has been abandoned temporarily for Chase S. Osborn III, 48-year-old Port Huron attorney and grandson of a former Michigan governor, who is believed to have plunged to his death Friday from the Blue Water Bridge.

Osborn's car was found parked on the American side of the bridge connecting Port Huron and Sarnia, Ont. A briefcase was found in the back seat and keys were in the ignition.

Sgt. Eugene Cole of the Port Huron police said three employes of Canadian National Railways saw the car stop and watched a man get out, climb the bridge railing and drop 152 feet to the water.

U Of M Plans New Concept Of College Living

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Regents of the University of Michigan Friday unanimously approved plans for the first of a series of proposed residential colleges that combine teaching and living facilities.

The new college represents a departure at U-M inasmuch it is designed to provide more personalized education at the 30,000 student university.

The new college is expected to enroll 1,200 students by the fall of 1969. Cost is estimated at $10 million.

The structure will provide living units as well as small seminar rooms that hopefully will provide more personal contact between students and faculty through smaller classes and increased emphasis on discussion rather than lectures.

President Harlan Hatcher told the regents the university's future expansion in undergraduate facilities was expected to take the form of such residential colleges.

Solon Aghast Over Agency Growth Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rural Community Development Service caught a bear by the tail when it went before a House Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee on its 1967 fiscal budget request.

"I've never seen anything like it," exclaimed Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the group, when he heard the $3,468,000 budget request.

"It's 5½ times more than 1966."

Whitten claimed the RCDS was started in 1964 as a little group to aid in coordinating activities of various agencies aimed at helping the rural poor.

"Now this is so much like government," he said in testimony released today by the House Agriculture Committee. "You have gone to $118,945 in 1964; $181,000 in 1965; $625,000 in 1966 and now you want $3,468,000.

Whitten told Robert G. Lewis, administrator of RCDS, that the committee felt kindly toward him personally.

Canadian Ships To Carry Most Cargo On Lakes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Canadian ships soon will be carrying more cargo on the Great Lakes than U. S. ships, says John M. Drewry, the chief counsel of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Drewry told the Lake Carriers Association that Canada already is operating three times as many ships over 24,000 tons as the United States.

Humphrey Guest At Jaycee Meet

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey heads the list of guests who have accepted invitations to the 46th annual convention of United States Jaycees June 27-30 in Detroit, convention chairman Richard N. Holloway said Friday.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is scheduled to be keynote speaker. Some 10,000 delegates are expected.

Other expected guests include Gov. George Romney, Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, Gen. Harold Johnson, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, and Debbie Bryant, Miss America 1966.

Truth-In-Lending Bill Given Okay

LANSING (AP)—House members clamped down Friday on Giant financing organizations, but quailed before the prospect of irate housewives.

They passed, 85-3, and sent to the Senate an installment sales contract bill — rubbed the "Truth-in-Lending" bill — but killed a measure that would have required door-to-door salesmen to register with the county clerk.

It also would have prohibited sales from 9 p.m. to 8 a.m. Questions of what it would do to women's commodity parties or the housewife who makes some extra money as a cosmetics salesman contributed to its 22-60 defeat.

Rep. Donald Pears, R-Buchanan, in explanation of his "no" vote, said simply: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scored."

Other members blamed an avalanch of telegrams from salesmen, and direct-sales firm officers for its defeat.

The lending bill "enables each buyer to know exactly what he is agreeing to when he signs a contract and exactly what it will cost him," said sponsor Francis Beedon, D-Muskegon.

The bill requires basically that the buyer be told in addother charges will be for the privilege of buying on time, the cash sale price of the commodity, and the total price including all charges and fees.

It would include a notice to the purchaser not to sign the contract if it contained blank spaces and informing him that he is entitled to a partial return of the finance charge if he prepays the balance.

Violation of the act would be a misdemeanor and the attorney general would be empowered to take action against offenders.

Miriani Pleads His Innocence

DETROIT (AP)—Proclaiming his innocence, Louis C. Miriani said after a federal court arraignment on income tax evasion charges Friday that he has no intention of resigning his seat on Detroit's Common Council.

Miriani, 69, a former mayor, is accused in a federal grand jury indictment of four counts of wilfully failing to report $258,000 income from 1959 through 1962.

Judge Thomas P. Thornton, before whom Miriani entered pleas of innocent on all four counts, assigned the councilman's case to Judge Wade H. McCree Jr.. Court attendants predicted the trial would begin in three to six months.

Miriani was released on $1,000 personal bond. If convicted he could be sentenced to five years imprisonment and fined $10,000 on each count.

Leaving court, Miriani told newsmen:

"I am innocent of these charges, and I am in a fight to clear my name and reputation."

Loggers Hear About Changes

Woodsmen Getting Machines

By JEAN WORTH

One of the men who knows most about harvest of American forests told the loggers workshop at the Teamsters' Hall in Escanaba on Friday about the great changes underway in American logging.

There has been national attention on wood production in the past year because of the shortage of woods workers.

James Hensel of Wausau, Wis., forest engineer of the American Pulpwood Association, told the more than 100 loggers from the U. P. at the workshop that:

1. "People, not equipment, are the most frequent cause of inefficiency and lack of safety in the woods.

2. "People are leaving the farms in the Lake States, but many still prefer to live in the country.

Efficient Handlers

3. "One of the biggest problems in the South is to find woods labor to run even the simplest machinery.

4. "Lake States loggers handle short wood much more efficiently than anywhere else in the country."

The loggers workshop, and another like it at Newberry, was sponsored by the Timber Producers Association and Lloyd Palmer of Crandon, Wis., executive secretary, presided. Employers Insurance of Wausau was host at a Westminster Hall luncheon and co-sponsor. The Bark River Culvert & Equipment Co., Michigan State University, the U. S. Forest Service, Thorp Finance Corp., and the Michigan State Police supplied programs on timber management, equipment maintenance, financing and accounting, compensation insurance, accident control, trucking laws and new ideas in logging.

Recruitment Difficult

Hensel, who believes that the Lake States wood industries will not be able to attract many new workers into wood harvest and that they improve their wood production by working with their present loggers, showed some of the new things being tried to speed logging, to make it produce more wood at less cost and to make it safer. Its hazard results in an insurance cost of more than $20 per $100 of payroll for workmen's compensation coverage.

Innovations pictured by Hensel included:

A "rotovator" which chews up the forest seedbed after logging to nourish forest reproduction.

A Swiss "tree monkey" which climbs a tree spirally, limbing it to a set height. (Not available in the U. S. yet.)

Banking chippers, which use the waste from lumber planing for pulp chips.

Training Cutters

M14 surplus tank converted into pulpwood carriers. "They carry 5 cords of 100 inch wood. Grossly overpowered an difficult to recommend."

Tank storage of logs in the South to keep bugs out and preserve wood quality. (A technique used by U.P. veneer mills.)

Training of woods workers, an exploratory and controversial subject. A Grand Rapids, Minn., effort has trained forester aide type of workers, a Gaylord, Mich., effort undertook to train loggers, but with poor result. An upcoming effort by UPCAP and Michigan Tech Sault Branch will set up industrial on-the-job training of wood cutters to increase skills and reduce hazards.

Balloon logging, successful in the Pacific Northwest and with "lots of promise" for wider application. It's potential for Lake States logging not determined yet. It's at its best overcoming tough terrain problems.

Forest industries and the Washington Highway Department have made studies which prove that wide single tires are better than duals.

Motorized slasher saws are being developed by innovators and by equipment firms and and appear to have a future in logging that moves trees to cut-up and loading points.

Wood Combines

Bushcombines are being used increasingly. They're the wood harvest equivalent of the combine in the farm grain harvests. U.S. logging is using them for pulpwood production on a two-shift basis, and Canadian operations use as many as three shifts to get maximum use of their machinery. And they find that their "graveyard shift" has better production than the others.

These combines shear or cut off the tree, catch it in a cradle arm, delimb it, cut it into desired lengths. There are about 30 of them operating in the South. They cut from 2 to 2.2 cords of wood an hour. A Lake States model is being developed for Minnesota testing next summer. Such machines cost about $45,000 and create need for efficient forwarding equipment to carry the wood from combine to loader.

A "selective beaver" that "slabs" stud logs into pulp chips, leaves the cant for studs.

Big Production

Portable debarker-chippers used in the West in primary, secondary and salvage type logging's third phase may have a future in the Lake States as wood harvest moves to roadside processing with "rather intelligent equipment." Such chippers in the West cost $100,000 to $150,000 and something less elaborate might be the Lake States adaptation.

A Mississippi island logging job produces 75 cords of wood every 2.5 days from three men's mechanized efforts in big timber.

Planning Safety

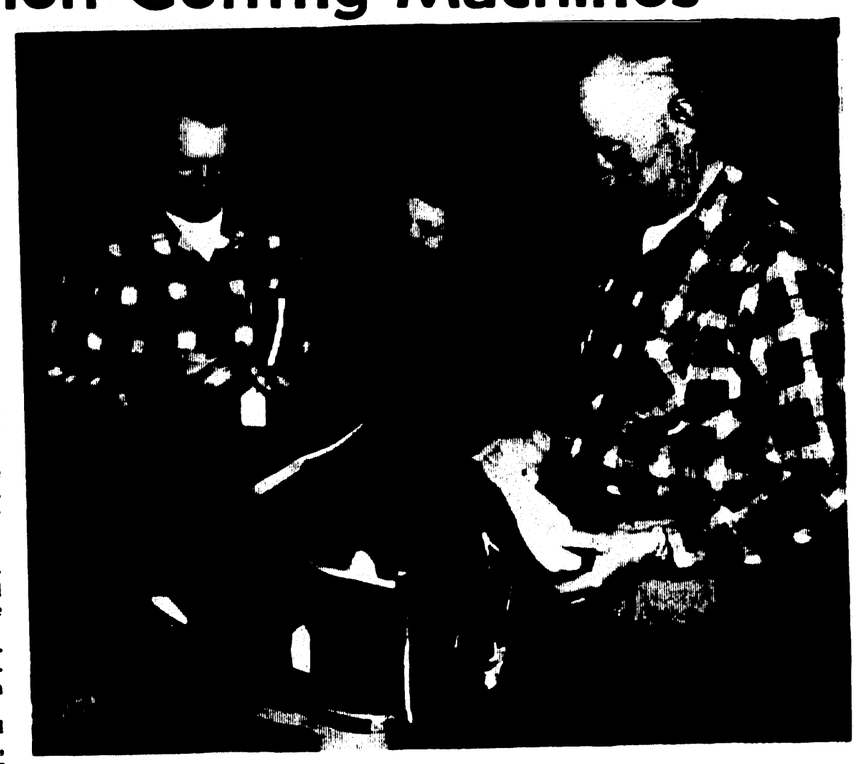
Marvin Pearson, safety engineer of Employers Insurance, said the modern concept of accident control plans for accident prevention as a contribution to profits.

"Logging is big business," said Pearson. "It is a $2 million business in Delta County yearly for the purchase price of pulpwood alone.

"Tree felling is the cause of 40 per cent of the accident costs in logging. A feller should look over the tree before cutting it and plan where he'll run when it falls. He should cut a good notch — some cutters don't notch at all — and when it starts to fall should retreat along his selected path.

"Every accident is the result of a sequence of events. The good crew operator should note that a man's sick wife affects his attention on the job, or that he left his hard hat at home and he should move in to break up the chain of events that causes an accident.

"We need more training of cutters, more canopies on tractors and more safety apparel."



THE LOGGERS WORKSHOP presented at the Teamsters' Hall in Escanaba on Friday by the Timber Producers Association and Employers Insurance of Wausau displayed safety apparel for woods workers. Here Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wiecieck of Perronville, left, and Frank Marusick of Wakefield inspect safety boots. They protect the wearer from accidental axe or saw cut and from crushing injuries of the kind so common in woods mishaps. (Daily Press Photo)

Youth Looks At Rep. Clevenger

By JACQUIE EMBS

(Editor's Note: Jacquie Embs is editor of The Escanaban, Area High School publication, and is a parttime employe in the newsroom of the Escanaba Daily Press.)

Government students of Escanaba Area and Holy Name High Schools were an audience to Ray Clevenger, U.S. representative of the Eleventh Congression District, at an assembly in the Area High School auditorium Friday.

For most of the students, "Ray Clevenger" was only a name accompanied by the title "Congressman." But as they stared at the speaker behind the podium they began to realize that this is the man their elders voted in as their representive in a democracy. He is the man the cliche "Write to your Congressman" refers to.

Mr. Clevenger loved to tell stories. He illustrated the separation of the two bodies of Congress by a congressman's wife who aroused her husband in the dead of night and shouted "There's a burglar in the house!" "No," says he, "In the senate."

He went on to say that one of the functions of the congressman was "case work" in which he identifies the problem (i.e. It is brought to him by a constituent. He gets 100 to 300 letters a day from them!) and motivates the agency involved with the problem.

"My job keeps the government from grinding up people," he said.

Mr. Clevenger threatened to filibuster, although he already had, so unfortunetly little time was left for the student's questions.

When asked for his comments on the War on Poverty, he said any large-scale program needs organization. The multivarious agencies which make up the War need to be guided in relation to each other so one works to the advantage of the other, he said.

Another student wondered if the U.P. is as depressed as Appalachia. He answered with statistics which seemed to indicate that the U.P. was substandard if compared to the rest of Michigan.

The last question time allowed was answered well. A student asked his opinion on demonstrations against government policy. Mr. Clevenger said, "This country will survive the expression of opinion."

He admits he is not too crazy about the President's policy in Viet Nam. "But I know no better policy. No sane or rational person wants war. They want an option." He said the President doesn't like the policy either.

Just as the conversation warmed, the bell rang, ending the session.

General sales and gross receipts taxes paid to states during 1965 amounted to $6.7 billion, continuing as the top source of income for state governments.

State Says City Must Close Dump

The Escanaba garbage dump located on Old State Road west of the city and used also by the adjacent townships must be closed within two years and a more sanitary method of garbage disposal established.

City manger George Harvey directed the attention of the City Council to the development, which is part of a statewide program of improved sanitation under recent Michigan legislation.

"Because we have an open dump, it is necessary that we post $2,500 performance bond with the State Health Commissioner," Harvey reported.

"The Health Department has issued an order that the burning at the dump be discontinued at once and this message has been relayed to the dump attendants."

"We have been put on notice that the date of May 3, 1968, will be the final date for the use of our present grounds," the city manager continued. The city is now in the process of locating a site where garbage disposal by the approved sanitary landfill method can be done.

The development of the new sanitary landfill dump—perhaps in the vicinity of the asphalt plant and city storage yard—will have to be considered as part of the financing to be done by the city for the period beginning July 1, 1967.

"Inasmuch as the adjacent townships utilize our present facilities, it is my intention to contact the supervisors of these townships in the hope of meeting with them and trying to resolve on a cooperative basis this problem that we all face," Harvey advised the Council.

Escanaba Man Charged With Raping Sisters

Dr. Gilbert H. Bast, 55, of 1015 1st Ave. S., demanded examination and is at liberty on $5,000 bond today in connection with moral charges brought against him by law enforcement authorities on Friday.

The Escanaba chiropractor is charged with the statutory rape of three sisters, who at the time of the alleged offenses were 15, 13 and 12 years old. He is also charged with taking indecent and improper liberties with each of the minor girls.

Arraigned in Escanaba Municipal Court before Judge James Fitzharris at 5:30 p. m. Friday, Dr. Bast demanded examination on the charges. The examination is scheduled for 10 a. m. Thursday, May 12.

Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas P. Chapekis said the parents of the girls made complaint to the authorities. The investigation and warrants followed.

The alleged offenses occurred over a period of time from August into November, 1965, the prosecutor said. The oldest sister, now 16 years old, is pregnant, he said.

Dr. Bast came to Escanaba in 1957 from Sault Ste. Marie. He had been in Sault Ste. Marie for 10 years before moving to Escanaba to establish practice. He is married and there are seven children in the family.

A native of Milwaukee, Dr. Bast was associated for a time with a clinic in the East and also practiced in Milwaukee before coming to the Upper Peninsula. He was a candidate for the Escanaba Area School Board in 1965.

Kids Splash After Smelt

By DAVE ANDREWS

GLADSTONE — It was like the first day of summer vacation, the opening of the Fair or free ice cream at the annual school picnic.

The sun was shining. The smelt were running. And so were the kids of Gladstone.

They came when school let out — running, walking and hopping to the little creek which runs out of the power plant at the east end of town. Some had hip boots, some carried pails and most were armed with long-handled nets.

The poor smelt. They didn't know what hit them.

"Hey, I got one," came a voice from the middle of the creek.

"Why don't you move over here?"

"You got to wait for them to come."

"Here they come. Where's my pail."

The frolic was just getting started when came the inevitable SPLASH! The little boy with plaid jacket and hat emerged dripping wet from the pool at the head of the creek.

"Well, I was due for a bath, anyway," he frowned.

The kids continued to come — some dragging mothers along behind.

"It looks like so much fun, I wish I was down there, too," one said.

"I just had to buy my kid a new pair of hip boots," chimed another.

Fun? You bet. It's been a long winter.

Warning

Sheriff Cully Johnson today warned smelt fishermen along the Escanaba River at Wells to stop using lumber from the Stephenson Lumber Co. yards to build platforms and fires. Johnson said complaints have been received from company officials and that unless the larceny of lumber is stopped, fishermen will be barred from the property. Johnson and State Police also warned fishermen to keep off the Roy Froberg property along the Days River. The land was posted after a complaint that fires threaten valuable timber and the land has been strewn with beer cans and debris.

SMELT WERE RUNNING Friday afternoon into the little creek which starts at the Gladstone Power Plant and the kids of the city had a picnic. They came with pails, boots and nets and an abundance of enthusiasm. It was fishing fun at its best. (Daily Press Photo)

Timber-Wall Chalet, Beef Yard Win Delta 'Products Of Year'

A Timber-Wall Chalet manufactured by American Timber Homes, Inc., and the new feeder sale yard at Stonington built by the Bay de Noc Beef Producers Association have been named Delta County's "Product of the Year" and "Agricultural Development of the Year," respectively, in Michigan Week competition.

Announcements of the awards were made today by Reuben Sjoquist, Gladstone, products chairman, and Irwin Ten Haken, Escanaba, agricultural awards chairman, for Delta County.

Entry brochures for both American Timber Homes and the beef yard development will be turned over to Leo Alperovitz, co-chairman with Joseph Heirman of Region 2 competition, next week. Region 2 includes Alger, Dickinson, Marquette, Menominee, Schoolcraft and Delta counties.

Entry Deadline

Deadline for regional entries is Monday, April 25. Regional winners must be named and submitted for state judging by Thursday, May 5. State winner will be announced during Michigan Week, May 15-21.

Last year's State Product of the Year with the F-28 helicopter, which came out of Region 2 and Menominee County.

This is the third straight year that an American Timber Homes product has been selected to represent Delta County in regional competition. The past two years the company has been runnerup to the F-28 helicopter.

John Walbridge Jr., president of American Timber Homes, Inc., said he was pleased and "very gratified" to learn of the selection.

Organized in 1961 by the officers of Early American Fence Co., American Timber Homes, Inc., has experienced rapid growth over the past five years. After two years of designing, redesigning and testin prototype buildings and sales markets, the First Timber Homes went into full production in 1963.

Sales Climb

The Timber-Wall Chalet, this year's winner, was introduced late in 1964 and was met with enthusiastic response.

"Indications are that sales of Timber-Wall Chalets in 1966 will exceed the combined total sales of all our products in 1964," Walbridge said.

The Timber-Wall Chalet was designed primarily for leisure life in the snowy north country, however, it has become increasingly popular in other parts of the nation.

The company employs over 100 people and is currently looking ahead toward expansion of facilities and production capabilities in 1967.

The feeder sale yard developed by the Bay de Noc Beef Breeders Association, of which William Jaeger of Watson is president, was opened for the first time last summer. Need for the facility increased over the past 10 to 15 years as the beef raising industry began to expand in the area.

MSU Assists

In 1957, the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University assisted beef farmers in organizing a marketing association. Purpose of the association was to assemble the animals for sale.

The sale continued to grow until rented facilities became inadequate. Necessary steps were authorized by the membership of the association to build a new marketing facilities for the 1965 sale.

Site was rented east of Rapid River on a long-term lease from the U.S. Forest Service and money was borrowed from the Farmer's Home Administration to build pens and erect the sales building. Cost was held to a minimum because many of the farmers donated labor towards construction costs.

The first sale brought in 1,788 head of feeder calves and yearlings, near capacity, and already the Association's Board of Directors is considering plans for increasing this year's capacity.

The Bay de Noc Beef Producers Association is made up of farmers, most of them from the central Upper Peninsula.

Thank You

Too often in the rush of life we fail to say "Thank You" loud enough for our friends to hear—but you can be sure that we, here at MOERSCH and DEGNAN are grateful for your past, present and, we hope, future patronage.

It has been a rare privilege for Moersch and Degnan to have served this community for the past forty years, giving prompt, expert and guaranteed service.

In April 1922, Jacob G. Moersch and James G. Degnan formed a partnership which was dissolved in 1945 by the death of Mr. Moersch. The business continued under that name with James Degnan as proprietor.

In March, 1965 Delbert Potvin became an associate and on the anniversary date—April 10, 1966—I wish to announce that he is now the new proprietor operating under the trade name "MOERSCH and DEGNAN".

Mr. Potvin (Bid) has been a capable, valued and versatile employee for many years. He is experienced and well qualified to handle any and all heating, plumbing, ventilating and sheet metal contracts for new construction and repair jobs.

I make no reservations in recommending Delbert Potvin as I know he will do his utmost to continue the policy of honest, efficient service which has been the aim of Moersch and Degnan since 1922.

In addition, your friends "Bill" Beyersdorf and John Kidd will still be on hand to serve you.

I thank you for your past patronage and shall greatly miss my contact with each and every one of you. May I ask that you perpetuate our past pleasant relations by patronizing my successor?

Greatest Events In American History No. 8

THE MOST IMPORTANT MEETING EVER HELD IN AMERICA

A group of 55 men met in Philadelphia in May, 1787; it was the most important meeting ever held in America.

These men got together to write what is now the U. S. Constitution. They worked all summer, not finishing till Sept. 17.

The oldest man at this historic meeting was Ben Franklin, then 81. Other greats present were George Washington, James Madison, Alexander Hamilton and Robert Morris.

The most amazing feature of their work is this:

Here were 55 human beings, meeting almost 200 years ago without being able to know the vast changes that were to come to the world over the next two centuries; yet they were able to write a document that is as useful and workable today as it was then.

And they produced the greatest Constitution in the history of the world.

Deer Hunt Advisors

Recently we expressed editorially our enthusiasm for the Michigan Conservation Department's plan to create a committee in each of the conservation districts in Northern Michigan — there are four in the Upper Peninsula — to advise about the deer hunt.

We reasoned that the biggest failure of the Conservation Commission is not in knowledge of what it should do, nor in exercise of that knowledge in action programs, but in explaining itself to the public. Its lack of success in this last field results in the department doing less than it should with the natural resources of the state for the public benefit because it is constantly appeasing legislative critics.

The deer hunt is a very sensitive subject with outdoorsmen. They haven't made much noise about the Conservation Department's shortcomings in allowing a huge wave of pollution to sweep the state. nor in a rather poky program of state forest development, nor in permitting the famine deaths of thousands and thousands of deer. But let the Conservation Commission order a hunt on anterless deer and public criticism erupts like Chinese firecrackers.

The citizens advisory committee, we reasoned, would circulate more information about the reasons for state deer hunt policy and make it more acceptable to the public. And it would, of course, bring to the Conservation Department the opinions of persons in all the game areas on good hunt policy.

★ ★ ★

This two-way exchange should, hopefully, create a situation in the Michigan Legislature where it would not be as safe as it is now to practice demagoguery in hunt politics. Some Upper Peninsula legislators still regard it as good politics to suggest to their constituents that only they can save the hunters from the Conservation Department.

This weird situation retards conservation, of course, since the legislators do not have the knowledge of the professionals in resource management. They only poison the well of public opinion by separating the hunters from the Conservation Department instead of bringing the two together.

Our first enthusiasm over the advisory committees as an educational technique is not shared by conservation people, at least not by some of them. The critics among them regard it as a great blunder. The action, suggested one employe "puts the Department 'in the middle'" of the controversy between the commission and public.

The committee system, it was suggested by another, "will soon be telling the state foresters which trees to cut. It is obviously one way to inform the public about the state's methods in game management — but at what cost!

"We are not hired to be educators," said a typical critical reply to inquiry. "The state hired our professional skills as resource managers. This cure (advisory committees) is going to be worse than the disease. We would lose some deer with a moratorium on shooting anterless deer (as proposed by the Legislature in a political answer to the deer policy critics) but the future with such a system wouldn't look as black as it does now (with the committee system.)

"We're not going to change some of our critics," said one employe, "but I guess we're going to try."

The speakers are very able public officials, devoted to the public interest, and frustrated by opposition which won't let them do their best work for the public.

They err, though, in saying that they weren't hired as educators. A part of the job is explaining their work to the public that employs them. Conservation is essentially concerned with humans. Our natural resources are managed for their benefit. A game manager's best work should be in his dealings with humans, not with raccoons.

Puzzles Are "In"

Who was Peer Gynt's mother?
Who was queen of Palmyra from 267 to 272 A. D.?
What is the real name of the silkworm of Assam?
You don't know?
Then get with it, brother — but fast!

For these are simple, basic facts any crossword puzzle fan should and must have at his pencil tip.

But you're not a crossword puzzle fan? You're NOT?

You're kidding. What are you, some kind of a nut? Or merely unsocial?

★ ★ ★

For crossword puzzling is an IN thing in the United States these days. Let a newspaper go to press without one and see what happens!

More than 30 million adult Americans — and no one knows how many kids — are crossword addicts. And don't try to induce them to kick the habit. They're hooked and they love it.

Why?

Well, for one thing, it's relaxing. It's a handy escape hatch from the headaches and problems we battle every day.

Besides, what red-blooded scholar doesn't feel a glow of quiet pride in the thought that he knows a three-toed sloth is an ai, and that a bird of fable is a roc?

★ ★ ★

Furthermore, he — or she — is also aware that a Venetian magistrate is a Doge, and that the Xingu is not a skin disease but a Brazilian river.

The crossword fan understands that he must never trust a sycophant because the bum is in realty a phony friend. And that if he finds himself in Madrid and feels constrained to cheer, he yells "Ole!"

Things like these are important if you want to cut in on discussion groups without looking like a dope.

And right now is an ideal time to acquire the crossword habit. For the trickiest puzzle of all is readily available betwen now and April 15.

It's a 13-letter word called Income Tax Form.

You're bound to know some words for it.

Peace Corps

The Peace Corps is at its fifth anniversary.

No matter what the originators intended, so far it has come through to some of the publis as an "in" graduate course for collegians, bring your own pith helmet.

Jack Hood Vaughn is spelling out his conception of the true nature of the corps as he looks for 10,000 new recruits. He is calling for young people who are "willing to become involved."

"We have nothing against people who carry placards, but we don't think that's enough," he told students during a UCLA address. "We are looking for activists, people who are interested in positive action in the areas of social reform. The Peace Corps itself is a form of protest."

Pals Despite Meany

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — AFL - CIO President George Meany's angry words against the Democratic party as one which "can't deliver" should not be read as some kind of declaration of war.

In practical political effect, the consequences of this militant posture in the elections of 1966 may be minimal.

Only recently, the Ohio unit of COPE, the labor federation's political arm, endorsed a flock of Ohio candidates for Congress and the state legislature. Every one was a Democrat. Included was the sometimes controversial Rep. Michael Feighan who has a primary opponent in his 20th Ohio district.

COPE's trained field workers played a heavy role in the astonishing addition of 500,000 voters to the registration rolls in Texas in a special drive after the poll tax requirement was knocked out. A high proportion of the new registrants are presumed to be liberal-voting, lower-income Democrats.

★ ★ ★

COPE has just finished the last of 13 regional conferences for 1966, an event which drew a smashing turnout of 650 labor leaders to Boston from New England states. Principal speakers were Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts and Rep. Donald Irwin of Connecticut, both Democrats.

Out in Michigan, powerful labor forces are preparing to throw their full weight behind their old friend, former Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, as he battles for a U. S. Senate seat against a tough primary rival, Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh of Detroit.

Williams is the symbol of an era in which organized industrial union forces led by Walter Reuther provided virtually all the real political muscle the Michigan Democratic party could muster. Obviously the bond is still very tight.

★ ★ ★

COPE this year plans to spend for nationwide registration effort the same sum, $750,000, allotted for the campaigns of 1962 and 1964. Its fall "get out the vote" drive likewise will be pursued with at least the same vigor previously exhibited.

Beyond doubt, Democrats, as so often before, will be the chief beneficiaries of these endeavors, since surveys indicate that lower-income Democratic voters are most laggard in registering and getting to the polls.

It is evident, too, that a heavy proportion of Democratic candidates will win formal labor endorsements in 1966. (Of 435 elected Congressmen in 1964, only 17 Republicans enjoyed such backing.)

★ ★ ★

George Meany's verbal blast, then, is not likely to change much. Labor would like to find more friendly Republicans to support. "Send us your Republicans!" exclaims one spokesman. But realists in the federation do not expect many more to turn up.

Meany, of course, is angry over wage-price guidelines (never actually accepted by labor), at failure of Congress to repeal the Taft-Hartley law's Section 14B, which allows state right-to-works laws.

But his assault on the Democratic administration has to be less than sweeping. President Johnson's 1965 Great Society programs were vastly pleasing to labor. Under the heading of what - have -you-done-for-me-lately, labor this year may see enactment of higher minimum wage levels, the so-called "common situs" picketing bill, new federal standards for unemployment compensation, a successful block to Sen. Everett Dirksen's controversial amendment to alter the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote reapportionment decisions.

Possibly Meany is most annoyed at labor's being taken for granted as a Democratic appendage. What he was up to was not a declaration of war but a redeclaration of the independence labor leaders insist they have maintained all along. But Democrats hardly seem likely to suffer badly in consequence of his anger.

6 Million 1966 Cars Are Built

DETROIT (AP)—Auto production lines hummed merrily this week as the U. S. industry turned out more cars than in any previous week of calendar 1966.

Output was estimated at 211,050 cars, well ahead of the former 1966 high of 201,054 posted March 7-12. It compared with the 142,376 car output last week and 155,589 in the corresponding week a year ago.

Another record was added to the industry's collection this week when the 6 millionth car of the 1966 model run rolled off an assembly line earlier than ever before. That was 14 days ahead of the old 6 million record set last year.

Calendar year output to date was estimated at 2,887,311 cars, compared with 3,021,244 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Dial 'Lost Dog'

DETROIT (AP) — Beginning today, if you lose your dog in Detroit, just stick your finger in a telephone dial and flick off L-O-S-T-D-O-G.

If you find a dog, do the same thing.

The letters translate to 567-8364, and that's the number of the Michigan Humane Society's new lost and found information center.

In announcing the new service, the society forgot one thing: What does one do if he loses a cat?

DESERT CAPITAL BOOMING

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli officials predict that by the end of this century the population of Beersheba, the capital of the Nebev Desert, will be 250,000.

The ministries of housing and the interior are studying a master plan which includes a new industrial zone, a university, shopping centers and new living quarters.

Finding The Way

What Is Truth?

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Russians orbited two dogs and report they have gained significant data for a lunar expedition. For centuries men have been receiving hints from the animal kingdom, assisting them in anatomical, physical and psychological research. Now we get information which may help in space exploration.

I can understand this, for we have a 14-year-old cocker spaniel which has been a faithful member of the household. Each summer we go to a cottage near a lake and this dog is immediately intrigued by the rabbit trails. She spends hours pursuing these exciting memoirs of a rabbit's excursions. Meanwhile, the rabbits peer from nearby hedges or from under the porches. Our dog isn't really interested in rabbits. She wouldn't know what to do with one if she met it. She just having a wonderful time with ancient trails.

The observation may not be helpful in planning a trip to the moon but it is of significance with the memories of the Lenten season fresh in mind.

Here is a salesman who has compiled a list of yesterday's prospects, is busy keeping his files in order but is never certain of what he is going to do with the live prospect.

Here is the clergyman who is busy trying to answer the questions which no one is asking.

Here is the anxiety-ridden person who is worrying about yesterday's symptoms.

Here is the prejudice-ridden man who is certain that nothing can happen in racial tensions or human relations because of yesterday's memories.

They are all counterparts of my cocker spaniel. They are having a wonderful time wearing themselves out chasing yesterday's trails.

Meanwhile, there is Jesus standing before Pilate and the ancient question is of today's experience: "What is truth?"

It bedevils our minds and tortures our reason. What is the meaning of life? What are our goals? What is the purpose of our existence?

If Pilate and Jesus had held a quiet discussion concerning this philosophical understanding of truth, history might have missed the Cross! There was a time to bring the truth of the ages into the experience of the moment.

In the shadow of the Cross, it's a time to recommit our best talent to the challenge of sharing that love now. The lesson of history is simply that what we have learned from the past must be shared in our present. That's the wonder of that experience of Christ. It has meaning for us on our trails!

Ann Landers

Ma Warns Daughter To Wed For Security

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 20, attractive (but not beautiful) and I have a fairly good job in an office.

My mother has had three disastrous marriages so I can't blame her for being bitter about men. But I do wish she would stop lecturing me about how stupid it is to marry for love. According to her, love is nothing but sex with a fancy name. She says love wears off after it's legal and that if a girl is smart she will marry for security.

Mother keeps urging me to go with older men who "can offer me something." She picks apart every fellow I go with and says I am a fool to waste my time on young punks who have at least 20 years of hard work ahead of them before they make anything out of themselves.

It frightens me when I see how rough my mother's life has been. She says I will wind up in the same boat if I don't learn from her mistakes.

I am so confused right now I don't know which way to turn. Please help me.—TENSION

Dear Tension: If you wanted to learn how to drive a car would you take lessons from someone who has had three horrible smashups? Well . . . neither would I.

A good marriage is not a gift. It is an achievement. And an achievement takes work. But the selection is of the utmost importance. The smart girl looks for kindness and integrity. She chooses someone she can respect and believe in, someone she can talk to and someone she can count on for emotional support—and someone to whom she can give emotional support when the situation requires it.

The girl who marries for money will find it is the hardest work there is.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have read, with interest, your definitions from time to time. I like your definition of charm best. My husband favors your definition of maturity.

And now, will you give us a definition for success? We are in our late 20's—not so young that we haven't formed some concepts that will last throughout our lives and not so old that we can't accept some new ones. Thank you.—THE JONESES THAT NO ONE IS TRYING TO KEEP UP WITH

Dear Joneses: Many years ago I ran across a definition of success that so closely reflected my thinking I have made it my own—with appropriate credit, of course.

Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote it and here it is:

"To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived. This is to have succeeded."

★ ★ ★

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits—the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex—Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped and self - addressed envelope.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

Strange how a landscape sets the imagination to work. Right now, looking at this scene, I can imagine all sorts of things.

Winged steeds riding to heavy music . . . . pioneers in the wilderness . . . . castles on the cliffs . . . boating at high speeds.

Look at the magic that enables the lake to mirror the rocky mountain peak and the heavens! The vastness and stillness of the scene sets my mind to wondering about time and space and things I will never understand.

But in standing here and wondering so, I feel like I've been near God.

There is a place where I can find Him always—in Church. Will you come with me?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Urban Steinmetz Speaks At HS Council Meet

Wednesday evening the St. Joseph Home School Council met for their April meeting. New members introduced and welcomed to the organization were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Curran. The officers expressed their thanks to Mrs. Gilbert Bast and Mrs. John Sankovitch and their committees for a very successful card party held earlier in the week.

The Spiritual Advisor, Father Jordan Telles, O. F. M. congratulated the parish for their faithful attendance of services during Lent and Holy Week. Sister Cleomene told the members that St. Joseph's school would cooperate and participate in the summer reading program. It was also announced that election of officers would take place at the May meeting.

Urban Steinmetz presented a very interesting program on the Family Life Bureau. As director and only lay leader of such an organization in the United States, Mr. Steinmetz explained the history and philosophy of the Bureau.

It was started in May, 1965, by Bishop Thomas L. Noa with the idea that it should appeal equally to people of good faith in all churches. The Family Enrichment Program is a series of talks on marriage designed to strengthen a happy marriage. It is not a councelling session for couples with serious troubles.

The Bureau is inter-denominational in scope and program and is under the direction of a board composed of two Catholic and two Protestant couples. In order to bring the program to as many people as possible, the series of lectures has been recorded and Mr. Steinmetz played parts of these records to give a clearer picture of the type of material used.

Mrs. Francis Corbett was in charge of the social hour that followed the meeting.

When you talk about a hole in one at the Ishpeming (Wawonowin) Golf Club you have to be careful to specify which hole you are referring to . . . Because of the imminence of ground subsidence (cave-in) the current season will be the last for club members to use the course which is located between Ishpeming and Negaunee . . . Increased mining activity by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. at the Mather Mine will make it necessary to fence off an area which encompasses five holes on the course . . . And by the end of next year, the remaining four holes will have to be vacated because of the danger of cave-ins . . . The course has been in use since 1896 and about 250 Ishpeming-Negaunee golfers play on it.

Laker Rally Nips Hawks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers rallied to score an uphill 130-121 victory over the St. Louis Hawks Friday night and win the western division of the National Basketball Association.

The win puts the Lakers in a playoff, beginning Sunday, with the eastern champion Boston Celtics to decide the NBA championship.

Jerry West with 35 points and Elgin Baylor with 33 led a fine Laker comeback which proved too much for a determined group of Hawks.

St. Louis scoring was led by Cliff Hagan, who closed out a brilliant 10-year career with 29 points, and Joe Caldwell with 21.

The score was tied 91-91 going into the final quarter, but the Lakers took over in the last 12 minutes to dominate play. Baylor and West controlled the game offensively and scored 27 of the team's 39 points in the period.

The Lakers jumped into an early 6-2 lead and stretched it to 16-5, with Walt Hazzard and Rudy LaRusso finding the range for Los Angeles. Hagan led the Hawks back, and with two minutes left in the first quarter, they caught Los Angeles, 24-24.

Caldwell hit on two jumpers and St. Louis led at the end of the period, 28-27.

The Hawks kept the lead through most of the second period, with Hagan and Caldwell hitting consistently. Bill Bridges controlled the boards for St. Louis, and the Lakers were guilty of numerous turnovers.

Los Angeles caught the Hawks with less than two minutes remaining in the half when Baylor stole the ball from Hagan and drove the length of the court to tie the score 54-54.

But Hagan and Lennie Wilkens hit on field goals, and St. Louis left the court at intermission leading 58-57.

Los Angeles spurted in front in the third period, with Baylor and LaRusso scoring. Hazzard teamed with West and then with Baylor on two layups to give the Lakers a 75-70 advantage.

In the final four minutes of the third period, no more than a point separated the teams, and Caldwell hit on a last-second free throw to put St. Louis into a 91-91 tie.

Brewer Leading Golf Champs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gay Brewer led the way into the third round of the $100,000 Tournament of Champions today, but the mystery of this golf show was the absence of wreckage on par.

The 34-year-old Brewer, a Kentuckian who plays out of Dallas, held a two-stroke lead over his nearest challengers with a 36-hole score of 70-69—139.

Bill Casper Jr., the first round co-leader with Brewer, and Dudley Wysong were tied at 141—Casper with 70-71 and the 26-year-old Wysong, from McKinney, Tex., 71-70.

Arnold Palmer was five shots off the front end in his bid to win the tournament for the second straight year, with 74-70—144, a score he shared with Lionel Hebert.

Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, was eight strokes back of Brewer, and so were Gary Player and Joe Campbell. Nicklaus and Player had scores of 76-71—147 and Campbell had 74-73—147.

Deadlocked at 143 were Bruce Crampton, Frank Beard and PGA champion Dave Marr, while Doug Sanders and Bobby Nichols occupied the 145 berth.

As for the intriguing part of the tournament, after 36 holes of play, only six pros were under par 144. A year ago, there were an even dozen. This time, only three have broken 70. Last year the figure was 12.

Tigers Stretch String To Four

By BIERNIE KENNEDY

DETROIT (AP) — It didn't take much—just a decision on Dick McAuliffe's part not to take a big swing—to extend the Tigers' season-opening winning streak to four games.

McAuliffe, who struck out in his first two appearances, hit the fourth grand slam home run of his career in the fourth inning Friday and led the Tigers to an 8-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

The game was played before 36,674 fans, largest home opening crowd in three years.

"I went up the first two times with the idea of taking the big swing," McAuliffe said. "But when I hit the homer, I just went up with the idea of getting a hit. I struck out both times on fast balls and hit a fast ball for the homer."

All four runs were unearned, the Tigers getting a break when second baseman Don Blasingame fumbled pinch-hitter Gates Brown's grounder with two outs.

For the fourth straight game, the Tigers got excellent pitching. Dave Wickersham and Orlando Pena combined to pitch a five-hitter. Pena allowing but two hits in the last five innings to gain credit for the win.

"That was my first opening day win in the United States," Pena quipped. "I once won the opener in the Winter League."

Wickersham left the game after the fourth inning because of a sore shoulder.

"He should have thrown the ball and kept warm when Ed Brinkman hit that foul off his foot in the second inning," Manager Charlie Dressen said. "Instead, he just stood on the mound and his shoulder got tight.

"He was the only pitcher to go nine innings for us in spring training but he takes a little longer to get ready,' he added.

A double by Al Kaline and another by Bill Freehan gave the Tigers their first run in the second inning.

Ken McMullen put the Senators ahead with a two-run homer in the third.

Kaline led off the Detroit fifth inning with a home run and the Tigers added another in the same frame on singles by Don Wert, Freehan and Mickey Stanley.

A double by Norm Cash and a single by Wert produced the Tigers' last run in the sixth inning.

The Senators added their final run in the sixth with the help of a throwing error by WERT.

Cash, Kaline, Wert and Freehan each had two hits in the Tigers' 11-hit attack off four Washington pitchers.

Braves Wreck Mets Bid For Opening Day Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — For eight glorious innings the amazing New York Mets looked like a ball club. Cleon Jones, a rookie right fielder, was being fitted for a hero's halo on an eighth-inning homer and a game-saving throw. It seemed the Mets finally were going to win an opener.

Then it happened.

A double by Joe Torre, a single by Lee Thomas, a wild throw by the same Mr. Jones and a squeeze bunt by Denis Menke.

Atlanta scored two in the ninth, fought off a last gasp threat and squeezed out a 3-2 victory, the Braves' first of the season.

The 52,812 fans folded up their bed sheet signs, tucked their thin purple beep horns under their arms and stole away home. The largest opening day turnout in the five-year Met history and the biggest of the major league season was bitterly disappointed.

Bobby Bragan's Braves subbed brains for brawn in this one Friday afternoon at Shea Stadium. A brilliantly-executed pickoff play killed one Met rally, and a perfect squeeze bunt by Menke won the game.

"We tried the squeeze six times, and it only worked once," said Bragan. "After last year we were almost ready to give that play to the birds.

"How'd you like that pickoff? It was a beauty."

The score was tied at 1-1 when Roy McMillan opened the Mets' eighth with a double over Felipe Alou's head in center. Wes Westrum, the Mets' new manager, sent in Dick Selma, a kid pitcher, to run for McMillan.

On a signal from catcher Torre, Denny Lemaster whirled on the mound and threw to shortstop Sandy Alomar. Selma was leaning the wrong way and was out with room to spare.

"I figured it was worth a shot," said Torre. "He was a pitcher. The crowd was yelling and he couldn't hear his coach. We put it on all spring, and this is the first time it worked."

Menke said his squeeze bunt came on a perfect pitch. "It was a fast ball right up here," said Menke, putting his hand across his chest.

"I had it in the back of my mind," said Jack Fisher, the Mets' losing pitcher. "But I really didn't think they'd try it. It was perfectly timed. I thought I had a chance to get him."

Fisher's throw was a fraction of a second late, but it got past catcher Jerry Grote anyhow.

"I thought we were going to win it," said Westrum in the clubhouse. "But we'll win a few like this one. One loss doesn't make a season. Neither does one win."

It was a speech that Wes will be making many times before the season is over.

Ex-Batboy For Dodgers, Rookie Of Year, Pounds Fourth Homer Of Season

By The Associated Press

Don Drysdale went twice as far as Sandy Koufax, but neither has gone as far as Jim Lefebvre.

A batboy for the Los Angeles Dodgers seven years ago, their second baseman and the Rookie of the Year in the National League last year, Lefebvre has gone right to the top this year—as the leading slugger in the majors.

The 23-year-old switch-hitter pulled Drysdale off the hook Friday night by slamming his fourth homer in three games, a three-run shot in the eighth inning that carried the world champions to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Lefebvre, who hit two homers Thursday night, now leads the majors in that department as well as runs batted in, with eight, and has compiled a .467 batting average by connecting for seven hits in 15-at-bats.

He has collected all but one of the Dodgers' homers this season, and already has accumulated one-third of the number of homers he hit last year when he batted .250.

Drysdale, meanwhile, made his first start of the season after his 32-day holdout, and proved more effective than Koufax. Where Koufax surrendered five runs in three innings Wednesday in his first start, Drysdale lasted six innings while giving up eight hits — all singles — and only two runs.

Another holdout, San Francisco's Bob Shaw, went 5 1-3 innings in his debut but beat Drysdale and Koufax to the victory circle by getting credit for the triumph as the Giants whipped Houston 6-2.

Roger Craig became the majors' biggest winner by posting his second victory as Philadelphia edged Cincinnati 4-3. St. Louis continued its mastery over Pittsburgh at Forbes Field by subduing the Pirates 9-2, and Atlanta added to the Mets history by edging the New Yorkers 3-2.

In American League action, Detroit walloped Washington 8-3, California thumped Minnesota 9-4, Cleveland outlasted Boston 8-7 in 12 innings and the New York Yankees nipped Baltimore 3-2.

Drysdale was touched for two runs in the second inning on three hits, a balk, a hit batter and sacrifice flies by Randy Hundley and Don Kessinger. The Dodgers, meanwhile, were unable to do anything with Dick Ellsworth until the seventh when Ron Fairly singled and moved around on an error by the Cubs starter and Nate Oliver's grounder.

Then in the eighth Wes Parker doubled off reliever Ted Abernathy, Fairly drew a walk and Lefebvre followed with his homer, putting the Dodgers and himself on top.

Shaw, who signed three days after Drysdale and Koufax, gave up six hits and two runs before needing relief help from Frank Linzy in the sixth inning.

The game, however, was never in doubt once Tom Haller hit a three-run homer in the third inning for a 6-1 lead. Willie Mays went 2-for-4 for the Giants and scored runs No. 1,500 and 1,501 of his career.

Craig, working in relief of Jim Bunning, got the victory for the Phillies when they battered former teammate Jack Baldschun for two runs in the ninth inning.

Baldschun came on for Reds' starter Sammy Ellis, who had allowed only four hits, and immediately ran into trouble when Cookie Rojas singled. A wild pitch and Clay Dalrymple's single produced the tying run. Then a walk and John Briggs' single brought the winner in.

The Cardinals tied the major league record for such things by beating the Pirates for the 18th straight time on Pittsburgh's home grounds.

Bob Gibson pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10 while the Cardinals supported him with a 13-hit attack that included two-run homers by Alex Johnson and Lou Brock.

The Mets lost their home opener for the fifth straight year although Cleon Jones did his best, throwing a runner out at the plate and then hitting a homer in the eighth inning for a 2-1 lead.

But the Braves struck in the ninth against Jack Fisher, scoring two runs on a double by Joe Torre, Lee Thomas' single, a throwing error by Jones and Denis Menke's squeeze bunt.

BATTING — Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, hit the first grand slam homer in the majors this season, leading Detroit to an 8-3 victory over Washington.

PITCHING— Fritz Peterson, Yankees, checked Baltimore on six hits and pitched New York to a 3-2 victory in his major league debut.

Rookie Pitcher Fashions Yanks' Initial Victory

By The Associated Press

Frank Robinson and the Baltimore Oriole fans have a friend in Fritz Peterson.

Except Peterson pitches for the New York Yankees and in his major league debut Friday he stopped the Orioles 3-2 on six hits.

Still the 24-year-old left hander was looking out for Robinson's and the fans' welfare.

Peterson revealed his concern for them after the game in discussing a home run Robinson didn't get in the fourth inning.

"I thought that one was going out," Peterson said. "I'm lucky the wind was blowing. Anyway, he did get one, and it pleased the crowd. That's what they came out to see. I didn't give it to him, but as long as it didn't hurt me, I'm glad he got it."

Peterson expressed much the same sentiment before the game to his roommate, rookie shortstop Bobby Murcer.

"I told Murcer that I would like to win 10-1, and that I wouldn't mind if Frank got a homer for the run," the young hurler related.

Frank got the homer all right, his third of the season, but it didn't make the score 10-1. It made it 3-2 and put Peterson in the position of retiring Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell without their pulling the Orioles into a tie.

He got Robinson on a short fly and Powell on a grounder, preserving the Yankees' first victory of the season after three losses and his spot in New York's starting rotation.

"He pitched about as fine a game as can be pitched," Yankee Manager Johnny Keane said. "Control is the key to pitching, and he has it. They can't wait on him because he gets the ball over."

Peterson didn't walk anyone and in fact went to three balls on only five batters.

In other American League games, Detroit whipped Washington 8-3, California downed Minnesota 9-4 and Cleveland edged Boston 8-7 in 12 innings.

In the National League Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati 4-3, San Francisco crushed Houston 6-2 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 4-2.

The Yankees scored their three runs off Wally Bunker. Tom Tresh singled across a run in the fourth inning and scored on Clete Boyer's double, and Joe Pepitone homered in the seventh.

Detroit coasted to its fourth victory without a loss after Dick McAuliffe hit a grand slam homer in the fourth inning. Al Kaline contributed a homer and a double to the Tigers' attack.

California handed defending champion Minnesota its first defeat after three victories. A two-run homer by rookie Rick Reichardt powered a four-run outburst in the sixth inning that put the game beyond the Twins' reach. Tony Oliva hit his third homer for Minnesota.

Max Alvis' run-scoring single in Cleveland's 12th inning ended a four-hour-and-41-minute contest against Boston. The Indians sent the game into overtime with a run that scored when Rico Petrocelli committed an error on Duke Sims' pop to short center.

US Copper Price Firm, Producers Fear Substitutes

NEW YORK (AP) — The two big questions in the world copper situation now are: Will other producing countries follow Chile's lead in raising prices? How many permanent customers for copper will be lost by the rise of almost 50 per cent in copper prices?

It is fairly certain that U.S. prices will not go up. Government pressure on the copper companies plus their own belief that higher prices won't pay in the long run should keep quotations at the present 36 cents.

The U.S. companies can produce profitably at 36 cents, although they can't fill all requests from casual customers. And Chilean copper sold in the U.S. probably will continue at the old quotations, thanks to a deal between the U.S. and Chilean governments.

This means stationary prices —but a shortage—in the U.S., which is both the world's largest producer and the world's largest consumer.

Copper companies operating in other countries still have not said what they will do about higher quotations. They are expected to study the situation over the weekend before announcing anything. However, the first and rather surprised expressions of opinion from both Canada and Zambia were adverse to a price rise.

Seek Substitutes

Officials of companies in both countries thought that Chile might gain financially in the short run by raising its prices. They will go up from 42 cents per pound to 62 cents for Chilean copper sold in Europe and Japan. But the Zambian and Canadian companies pointed out that higher prices for the metal will drive consumers to find substitutes.

This development would lead directly into the second question — what percentage of the market would be lost permanently to copper by the higher prices.

Copper is primarily a current-carrying metal. It is the best conductor of electricity there is except for silver, whose price rules it out. However, aluminum is cheaper and already has taken part of the copper market for large power cables. Copper still is used in small wires needed for electric motors, but aluminum would serve here too if a slightly larger size were acceptable.

In house wiring and small cables, sodium is a new competitor for copper, since copper fell into short supply. There is plenty of sodium, at 17 cents per pound compared to 36 cents for copper. It takes more sodium to carry the same amount of current, but 24 cents worth of sodium is as efficient as 36 cents worth of copper.

Sodium Wire

Union carbide already has opened a factory to make sodium wire, but there is a drawback to it. Sodium wire can only be used in factory-produced lengths. Sodium is so active that it must be sealed in plastic and have special terminals of some other metal applied when the cable is made.

Copper, since it is flexible, can be soldered easily and resists corrosion, is also a favorite for plumbing. However, plastic pipe has the same advantages and is cheaper. Government agencies have been reluctant to permit the use of plastic pipe in household plumbing, but a grave shortage of copper or very high prices could change that attitude.

The copper companies think the present shortage is temporary. Some copper men think supply and demand will be in balance sometime in 1967. The American companies are planning big investments in Chile which will increase production there. Other deposits throughout the world, notably in the Philippines, also are being developed.

Will Need Markets

This means that copper will be looking for new markets before the end of this decade. The mining companies have joined together in an international research organization to seek these new uses for copper, to absorb a future surplus.

One result has been a new lacquer coating for copper, making it usable for such hardware as door handles and lock plates. There is also some research underway on using copper as a die-casting metal. Zinc and aluminum are now cast by being pumped into solid moulds, and copper would replace some of these — if it were cheaper and in ample supply.

With a surplus of copper in prospect by the end of the decade, at the latest, the copper companies don't want to see present shortages drive away any permanent customers. That is why prices may not go up as demand increases.

Topless Dealers Stir New Nevada Gambling Furor

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The odds on blackjack might be getting worse around here.

Nevada Atty. Gen. Harvey Dickerson says at least one casino is planning a new distraction—topless dealers.

As eager as visiting card players might be to lose their money so pleasantly, natives took a dimmer view.

"It's lewd," said the Rev Glenn Tudor, member of the Clark County (Las Vegas) Ministerial Association.

"I don't know. I don't know," said Milton Keefer, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Commission.

"I think it's indecent exposure," said Pete Dommarito, day shift manager at another casino.

"No comment," said Robert Miller, assistant general manager of the Silver Nugget where Dickerson said the women dealers, stripped to the waist, would begin work next Tuesday.

Topless chorus girls are old hat in Las Vegas. They made their debut in 1958. They survived an attempt to outlaw them. And they were introduced in Reno in 1961.

Dickerson said Thursday he learned that the Silver Nugget, in suburban North Las Vegas, has hired new women dealers who are willing to work so dressed. He said the new girls were getting a week of training.

"My office has had several calls from the women dealers presently employed by the casino," Dickerson said. "They have complained that unless they shed their top garments, they would lose their jobs.

"If the Nugget carries out this plan, I'll seek a court injunction to halt this affront to the decent and law-abiding citizens of Nevada.

"If this course is taken by the casino involved or by any other casino, my office will request in the strongest language that a close look be taken by the gaming control board at the licensing authorizing '21' (blackjack) games in that place of business."

Hosmer St., Lansing, Michigan 48904. Bids must be for the entire operation. Bids will be opened at 10:30 A. M., June 15, 1966.

Caroline Thomas Has TV Solution

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Oh, the waste of it all! No fewer than 48 television series are shuffling off the networks this season, a record.

This throws hundreds of actors out of work and corporations into panic — three big studios suffered a total loss of 17 series. Millions of dollars are lost, since many series fail to show a profit on the first run. They need a few years of production and reruns to break even.

Is there a solution to this waste? There is, and it is offered by that astute observer of the television scene, Caroline Thomas.

Miss Thomas is 7, and she was upset to learn that two of her favorite shows, "Gidget" and "The Patty Duke Show" are going off the air.

"Why can't Gidget move in with Patty Duke?" she suggested.

A brilliant suggestion. Shows could be spared the ax by combining with others for double the viewing enjoyment. Or triple, since Tammy would be an ideal companion for Patty and Gidget.

Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare could go into practice together. The Adams family could take up residence with the Munsters, or vice versa, and scare the dickens out of each other.

A combination of the Loner, Jesse James, the Man from Shenandoah and the chaps from "Branded" and "Rawhide" could wipe the Ponderosa off the map.

There isn't a case that could not be solved by a detective agency staffed by Honey West, Henry Phyfe, Secret Agent and Blue Light. Hazel could get a job with Ozzie and Harriet. Mister Roberts and McHale's Navy could climb aboard the Wackiest Ship in the Army.

Caroline and I have not yet figured out what to do with My Mother the Car, Mona McCluskky, O.K. Crackerby, John Forsythe and Hank. But then the networks couldn't, either.

Soo To Spend $6.6 Million On New Equipment

A $6.6 million equipment acquisition program which will place 355 new freight cars, 4 new locomotives and 10 new cabooses in service during 1967 has been authorized by the Soo Line's board of directors.

The authortzation for new locomotives will put diesel-electric units of record horsepower in service on the Soo. Each of the new units will generate 3,000 horsepower. The Soo's most powerful locomotives now, which were acquired in 1964 and 1965, each generate 2,500 horsepower.

The new cabooses wil permit the Soo to expand its program of operating trains through crew-change terminals without the delay of changing cabooses. The 10 new cars will join 5 similar cars now in service.
